UNWEARIED LOVE.

Why is it my dear Mrs Fairchild, that your hildren are always cheeriul and amiling, with rosy faces and sparkling eyes while mine are most of the time the very realize of all this, in every particular? Indeed my trials are rather peculiar 11 ve my children most tenderly, 1 that a child of the Lord Jesus shou d be; and this zine. morning I have come to you for the express purpose of of opening my heart fully and seeking your advice

Mrs F "My dear Mrs Gordon I should be most happy to relieve your anxieties. I sincere ly p ty you, and yet am at a loss to know how to kivise. Lamin a great measure ignorant of your views on the subject of parental duty, or the methods you pursue with your children.'
Mrs. G. *Do you have the goodness to tell me freely your views and your method and by the light of your experience I may detect faults in my own man igeneent which occasion the at at . 1 suffer I confess I have often been perplexed when I have seen your large family, each performing their respective duties so quietly and orderly, when it is so very different at our Mrs P "It would require a long time to comply with your request to give even a ske cliof my views and methods, for the subject is so full of interest to my mind that every day adds a little to the sock which has been accumulating to suggest a few simple rules by which I ender vor to regulate my own conduct, for you must be aware, my dear friend, and a mother's chief business is with herself that her greatest diff culty lies in controlling her own aparit. Laking this, therefore, for my motto, example is far more weighty than precept, I endeavor, with strong reliance on the assisting grace of God, to cloth myself with a meek and quiet spirit, endeavoring to exhibit it in every expression of the face and utterance of the soul.

"A second rule is, to take the two grand principles of the Divine government, viz unbending firmness and nawearied love, for a model of imitation. You know perfectly well that our family government is decided and I need not dwell on this point. It it the latter principle which is too much lost sight of, viz unwearied unlimited love. I do not mean indulgence, or fond ling, but something widely different. I refer to the reciprocal expressions of kindness and affectt on between parents and children, which naturally arise from a relation so tender and endeartheir children, but do children always know that their parents are the best and kindest friends in the world? Can the drughter always find a home in the amed nathonom for her young per-plexities and youthful trials? Do the mild and persussive accents of paternal love attract the affections of the youth just launching his bark anit i life a dangera. A few fathers indeed there are who could, in this respect, take their place at the side of the noble LordCh abam of whom it is related that ' lie constantly associated with his children, converged with them on all sub jects of which their young minds were capable, treated them as companions, gave them all op portunies of expressing their opinions, he never passed a day of health without giving in-struction of some sort to his family, and seldom without reading a chapter of the Bible with

That acute statesman under stood human nature better than most of us He acted upon the well known maxim, sithat we soon become that which we are taken to be, and your suggestion leads me to another rule, which I early adopted, viz I o lose no suitable apportunity to commend. The Father of bound less love sanctions it. "Oh. Mrs F "Undoubtedly great discretion is to be used. But I will give you a very familiar illustration of that to which I refer. Suppose my daughter has acquired a habit of stooping, which you will allow is difficult to overcome. After kindly representing to her the various evils to which such a liabit aubjects her; I should watch for the first efforts she makes to comply with my wishes, a dispeak of their with affectionate | 1-a sure. Would not this incthed be preferable to the common one of rendering her continually unhappy by reference to the fault, and is there anything in it to excite vanity? But I trespass, I fear, on your patience, and will only observe, that these three rules, drawn from the spirit the Bible, the grand basis of correct theory of this interesting point, viz. To be what I desire to see my children become lo cherish most intimate friendship with them, and by a cheerful commendation allure them on to successful ef fort in the struggle with sin, the sample rules some of them are of the first quality for settling and I endeavor to take for my daily guide, and with the blessing of the all-surrounding Spirit, thus growth of Timber far have they rendered my great work easy. General Gamarra made a visit, not long since, to our squadron, accompanied by the different ministers of departments. Madame Gamarra of course with him. After the customary salutes, they entered the commodore's cabin, where refreshments were offered, and the usual compliments exchange. When Madame Gamarra thought they had remained a sufficient length of time, she rose, looked around her with the air of an empress, and uttering the single word "varnos!" (begone!) left the cabin, the others following her out like a pack of sheep following their leader. She always wears pistols and a discipline of one of the regiments of the gridy, she sent for the colonel commanding it, and reprimanded him in a manner to suffich he did not feel inclined to submit, especially from a woman; he replied that he would hold himself responsible to the President, but not to the Fresident's wife. He was soon taught, however, whom he had to deal with ; for Madame Gamarra immediately commanded him to silence, and, at the same time, presented a pistol, told him that if he uttered another word of insolence, she would drive the bullet through his head. Why is it, my dear Mrs. Fairchild, that your children are always cheerful and smiling, with rory from and spackling eyes, while mine are most of the time the very reverse of all this, m every particular? Indeed my trials are rather peculiar. I leve my-children most tenderly: Idesire to do my duty towards them, and I long to see them affectionate, obedient, happy and all that a child of the Lord Jesus should be; and this morning I have come to you for the express purpose of of opening my heart fully and seeking vi-ur advice

Mrs. F. "My dear Mrs. Gordon I should be most happy to relieve your anxieties. I sincerey pity you, and yet am at a loss to know how to sevise. I am in a great measure ignorant of your views on the subject of parental duty, or the methods your pursue with your children."

Mrs. G. Do you have the goodness to tell me freely your views and your method, and by the light of your experience I may detect faults n my own management which occasion the evils suffer. I confess I have often been perplexed when I have seen your large family, each performing their temperative duties an quietly and orderly, when it is so very different at our

Taking this, therefore, for my motto, example is for more weighty than precept, I endeavor, with strong reliance on the assisting grace of God, to cloth myself with a meek she quiet spirit, endeavoring to exhibit it in every expression of the face and utterance of the roul.

"A second rule is, to take the two grand prime ciples of the Divine government, viz unbending firmness and unwearied love, for a model of initation: You know perfectly well that our family government is decided and I need not dwell on this point. It it the latter principle which is too much lost sight of; vis: unwearied unlimited love. I do not mean indulgence, or fondling, but something widely different. I refer to the reciprocal expressions of kinducas and affectt on latween parents and children, which naturally arise from a relation so tender and endearing. No question but fathers and mothers love heir ohildeen; but-do ehildren always know that their parents are the best and kindeat friends in the world? He acted upon the well known maxim, "that we soon become that which we are taken to be; and your suggestion leads me to another rule, which I early adopted, viz. To love no suitable apportunity to commend. The Father or boundless love sanctions it "Oh Daniel, greatly benine own heart." After kindly representing to her the various evils to which such a habit subjects her; I should watch for the first efforts she makes to comply with my wishes, at dispeak of them with affectionate pleasure. Would not this method be preferable to the common one of rendering her continually unhappy by reference to the fault, and is there anything in it to excite venity? THE NOVEL READER.

She slumbered in a rocking chair. She occupied all day, And in her lap, half opened there, The last new movel lay, Upon the hearth the dying brands Their latent radiance shed; A flaring candle near her stands, With a crown upon its head.

Her hair, which long uncrimged had been, -Was hanging loosely round; A single curl by a crooked pin. On the side of her head was bound Her grown, it had been white, I ween, But white it was not then; Her rulles too, had once been clean,

And might be go again. . One slip shod foot the fender prest, The other sought the floor, And folding o'er her heaving breast.

A dult red shawl she wore. The flickering light is finding fast, Yet cares not she for mortal things, For in her busy brain,

The novelist's imaginings Are acted o're again.

But while in this delicious nap, Her willingstense is found, The bunk escaping from her lap, Falls lumbering to the ground.

She wakes, but 't is also to see The canale's quivering beam Nor in the blackened couls can she Revive one friendly gleam. Then groping through the patagge far, Bine steals with noiseless tread, And leaving every door ajar. Creeps shiveting to her bed.

Dr. Wnt. Evans Bir, be pleased to receive the thanks of one who has been a great sufferer for several years, for the great benefits she has seceived from the virtues of your insetimable Campaile Pills.

She has suffered with pain and distress in the bend, a lightness across the head, a lightness across the Stomach, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart ; exercise would almost overcome her; but since using your Camoinile Tonic Pills, her complaints are removed she is able to exercise without fatigue, and she is happy to say, can enjoy life comfortably again. Newark, July 18, 1836 Dear Sir, for four years have been so unwell that I was unable to attend to my business, and for the last 4 or 5 months was confined in my room, my echiplaints were rheumatism, pains in my stomach, indigestion and loss of appetite, with continued pain and dizziness in my bend; I used different kinds of medicines without effect; until I communeed taking your invaluable Camomile and Aperiont Pilla; their beneficial ef fects upon me astonish all who knew my situation In a few days I shall be at your office to express my grantude to you in person. In the mean time I subscribe myself your most ob't serv't. B. S. JARVIS, 13 Centre st.

several cases "an elderly lady who had been 25 yrs. afflicted with nervous hypochondria, debility Are. hat for the last A years she constantly received me dical aid from a respectable physician, but the pressure and pain on her heart and breast, and especial ly in her left side, remained immovable, attended a long intervals with weakness in her head and on her mind keeping her discouraged to undertake any thing. In May the commenced using Dr W. Evans Camomile and Family Aperient Pilly, according to the direction accompanying them. A reaction took place; the pains and pressure in her body was removed, her mind became clear and strong; her api rits perfectly good, and up to this time is in all respects restored to health, which for the last 10 years she has not cujeyed."

JONAS SNYBER. On Low Spinite. Low spirite is & certain state of the mind, accompanied by indigestion, wherein the greatest evils are apprehended upon the slight est grounds, and the worst consequences imagined Ancient writers supposed this disease to be confined to those particular regions of the abdomen technically valled hypochondria, which are situated on the right or left side of that cavity, who we comes the name hypochondriasis. Symptoms The common corporal sy are flatulency in the stee ach or bowels, acrid acuetations, costiveness, spas, adic pains, giddinsas, dimness of sight, palpitations, and often an utter inability of fixing the attention upon any subject of im portance, or engaging in any thing that demands rigor or contage. Alas languidaces it he mind becomes irritable, thoughtful desponding, melancholy taken upon himself the trust of Administrator on and dejected, accompanied with a total derange the estate of Isaac Billings, late of Brookstill, in the ment of the nervous system. The mental feelings. tion nd overwhelm the indement exhib CAUSES. A sedentary life of any kind, especially severe study, protracted to a late hour in the night, and rarely relieved by social intercourse, or exercise, a disvolute habit, great excess in eating and drinking, the immoderate use of mercury, vio-lent purgatives, the suppression of some habitual discharge, or long continued eruption; relaxation or debility of one or more important organs within abdomen, is frequent cause.

TREATMENT The principal objects of treatment are, to remove indigestion, to strengthen the body, and to thiven the spirits, which may be promoted by exercise, early hours, regular means and pleasant conversation. The bowels (if costive) being careully repulated by the occasional use of a mild aperient. We know nothing better calculated to obtain this end, than Dr. Wm. Erans' Aperient Pills-being mild and certain in their operation. The bow-els being once cleansed, his inestimable Camemile Pills, (which are tonic, anondyne, & anti-spassodic) are an infallible semedy. & without dispute have proved a great blessing to the numerous public. Some physicians have recommeded a free use of mercury but it should not be recorted to; as in many caves if will greatly aggravate symptoms. Sold wholesale and retail by
